SOMETHING BEHIND ATTACKS ON PRESIDENT.

DISSATISFIED WITH REFORM

SENATOR CARMACK SCORES REPUBLICAN MEMBERS

TO "DETHRONE" ROOSEVELT

Whole Discussion of Negro Affair, Says Carmack, Is to Oust Roosevelt as Party Leader—Must Be Renominated or Platform Surrendered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Senators tonight regard the end of the Brownsville discussion in sight and it confidently expected that a compromise resolution offered by Senator Foraker just before the close of today's session will be adopted. Mr. Foraker had the floor to make what he today expressed the hope would be the concluding speech on the subject.

He will proceed immediately after morning business tomorrow, unless interfered with by special order of the day, which is the delivery of eulogies on the life of the late Senator Bate of Tennessee. Whether he speaks tomorrow or Friday it is expected that a vote will follow, although it is possible that other brief speeches may be made before the end is reached.

Foraker Offers Substitute Resolution.

Mr. Foraker offered a substitute for all of the previous resolutions on the Brownsville affair as follows:

"Resolved, That the committee on military affairs is hereby authorized and directed by subcommittee or otherwise, to take and have printed the testimony for the purpose of ascertaining all the facts with reference or connected with the affray at Brownsville on the night of August 13, 1906. Said committee is authorized to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, to sit during the sessions of the senate if deemed advisable, at Brownsville or elsewhere; the expenses of the investigation to be paid out of the contingent fund of the senate."

The language of this provision is satisfactory to Senator Lodge and other supporters of the administration in the matter of the discharge of the negro troops, and it is believed by senators that it will be quite unanimously accepted.

Attempt to Dethrone Roosevelt.

The feature of today's debate was the arraignment by Senator Carmack of republican senators who have criticised the president for his action in the Brownsville matter. He regarded this as an attempt to "dethrone" the president as the leader of the party, and declared that either the president should be renominated or the platform on which he stood returned to the Democrats.

"It seems to me that there is something else behind this uncalled attacks upon the president than a passion for justice and law," said Mr. Carmack. "This particular act of the president is simply the occasion, but it is not the cause of this violent and concerted attack on the administration. The president has done enough in all conscience to alarm every real friend of the constitution, but through it all he has had the united and enthusiastic support of all the senators on the Republican side.

"It is by the best acts of his administration that the president has aroused so deadly an antagonism within his own party. He might have continued to trample on the law to the end of time and there would have been no voice of protest if he had not otherwise offended. The president has made no mistake of compelling his party to break with its old time friends, to turn its guns upon its allies of a hundred battles; he has brought the great railways and trusts to know that there are such things as government. His party leaders have yielded a snarling and reluctant half-way obedience to his will, biding time and opportunity to strike."

To Go Back to Old Position.

Declaring this to be "the beginning of the fight to break the power of the only leader of the Republican party, who ever arrayed it against the enemies of the people," he said. "It is an effort to put the party back to its old position, to renew its old alliances, make peace with old-time friends and renew its covenant with the plunderers and oppressors of the people. All the resources of the gentleman in the White house can not stay the inevitable. He has attempted the impossible task of reconstructing the Republican party."

He told the Republican senators they must take their choice of the alternative, "either renominate President Roosevelt or give us back our platform." He declared the sentiment which the president had helped arouse against plutocracy will bring millions of votes to the Democratic party and that "if President Roosevelt, himself, chooses to come he will find ample opportunity to exercise an influence for the welfare of the people and learn some respect for the law and the constitution."

In beginning his address, Senator Carmack announced that he heartily supported the president in his action discharging the negro soldiers. The action of the legislature of his state taking the same position met his personal views.

"I think it proper to say that any report that the senator may have heard that the president personally solicited my support in this matter, that he urged me to forgive and forget certain personal remarks and

REALLY MAKES SACRIFICE

Wants to Be Judged by His Record. Will Represent Whole State and Stand by President—Ceremonies Attending Election Simple.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Jan. 16.—The ceremonies and proceedings in connection with the election of a United States senator were completed at noon today, when the two houses of the Sixteenth general assembly met in joint session.

The session was presided over by Lieutenant Governor Harper, as the acting president of the senate. The secretary of the senate read the journal of that house concerning the action taken yesterday, and the clerk of the house followed with the reading of the house journal. Mr. Harper then made the following declaration:

"It appears from the reading of the journal of the senate that Simon Guggenheim, on the vote for United States senator, received a total of 22 votes and Charles S. Thomas received 12 votes; and it appears from a reading of the house journal that Simon Guggenheim received 46 votes, Charles S. Thomas 15 votes and Frank C. Goudy 4 votes.

"Simon Guggenheim having received a majority of all the votes of the senate and the house of representatives, is hereby declared elected United States senator from the state of Colorado for the full term, beginning March 7, 1907."

Senator Parks moved the appointment of a committee of six to escort Mr. Guggenheim to the chamber. The chair appointed Senators Parks, Anfenger and Barela, and Representatives Dillingham, Cannon and Doty.

The committee found Mr. Guggenheim in the governor's office and returned with Mr. Guggenheim and the governor. Introduced to the assembly, Mr. Guggenheim said:

Senators and Representatives of the State of Colorado:

Sincerely do I thank you for the great honor and for the confidence you have reposed in me in electing me to the highest office in the gift of the state.

I appreciate my responsibilities and in order to give my entire time to the people of our nation and state during the sessions of congress, and also during the recess, I have withdrawn from all active business.

Will Be Active.

In accepting the position of senator, I do so with the sole purpose of rendering loyal and efficient service to all the people, and to accomplish this object I shall be an active member of the United States senate.

By devoting constant time and attention to the duties of my high office much should be accomplished for our nation and state.

It has always been my ambition to be one of the state's builders, realizing that we are a young state, extensive in area, rich in resources, and capable of supporting a much larger population. Great is the opportunity of increasing the population and of attracting to Colorado the needed capital and labor for our development, that in time our commonwealth may become one of the most important states of our glorious union.

Gladly do I give up a commercial career for the purpose of assuming the responsibilities of senatorship and of devoting myself entirely to the obligation of the high office.

I want to be judged by my record, which I hope will be such that all the people of our state may feel that their confidence has not been misplaced.

Free and Untrammeled.

At this time I wish to state clearly that I am going to Washington to represent all the people, that I am free and untrammeled, and under obligations to no interests, company, railroad or corporation.

I am in hearty sympathy with the progressive achievements of our party and of President Roosevelt. I favor all legislation adopted by congress to correct industrial evils and abuses, and will support and suggest further measures that experience or wisdom may demand as necessary.

Any one occupying a public position must expect to be the target of criticism. Just criticism is beneficial; malicious misrepresentation dies its own grave.

When I reached my majority I came to Colorado. I rejoice that the friends that I made during the early days are still my friends. I hope to include in the bond of friendship all of the people of our state.

Gentlemen, it is with deep appreciation that I accept the high honor and the greater responsibility you have conferred upon me.

At the conclusion of the address, the joint session dissolved, following which was a hand-shaking session. Mr. Guggenheim, supported by Governor Buchtel, Lieutenant Governor Harper and Mr. Breckenridge, speaker of the house, smilingly received the members of the legislature first, and then the general public.

Among the first to shake the senator's hand was Representative Vincent, who had spent a full hour of the previous day suffering his opinion of the folly of electing the gentleman.

When Senator Crowley, who introduced the hot resolutions in the senate, was presented, Mr. Guggenheim asked:

"Senator Crowley?"

"What is left of him," responded the Democratic leader.

In the evening a general jollification was held in the Guggenheim headquarters at the Brown Palace hotel.

OFF DAY IN ASSEMBLY

NEITHER HOUSE TRANSACTS MUCH BUSINESS.

Slight Amendments to Resolution Providing for Investigation of Actions of Stratton Executors.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 16.—Neither house of the legislature transacted much business today. Both houses received a number of bills, contemplating legislation on various topics, and let the day's work go at that.

The house made some slight amendments to the resolution proposing an investigation of the actions of the executors of the Winfield S. Stratton estate, in relation to the Myron Stratton home. These were afterwards agreed to in the senate, so that the committee of investigation will likely be selected today.

To Protect Ore Owners.

Senator De La Vergne introduced bills to protect owners of ores and minerals; the first was to make a felony of the taking of ore or mineral from any mine by any person not an owner. It provides severe penalties, being intended to break up the practice of what is known as "high graders." His other bill provides that the ownership of all ores or minerals shall remain with the consignor until the valuation of the shipment has been agreed upon. It provides severe penalties for mixing ores, or concealing them in order to reduce the value.

Mr. Lehrritter introduced in the house a bill to protect the public rights along all fishing streams. It provides for the selection of a commission of three in each county to condemn the land in the beds of streams and the right to traverse the banks of these streams. Property owners are to be paid for their rights. Those who accept the amounts fixed upon by the commissions will have no further trouble, but those who do not are to be haled into court.

Mr. Parrish presented a bill to erect a new judicial district out of the counties of Otero, Bent, Prowers, Kiowa and Baca. These are at present in the Pueblo and Las Animas districts.

Mr. Napier presented a bill to amend the irrigation priorities law so that much of the present litigation will be avoided; also a bill to give residents of cities the right to vote on franchises, whenever a company proposes to put in new waterworks, electric lights or other classes of public utilities. Another provides that district attorneys shall be ex-officio county attorneys.

Mr. Verner, representative from El Paso, introduced a bill to provide for the construction of additional reservoirs for the conservation of surplus and overflow waters. It gives companies rights to construct reservoirs on public lands, with six months in which to complete the work. With one reservoir built, the company may construct another on the same watershed under the same conditions as the first.

LAND FRAUD INVESTIGATION

Pueblo Federal Building Scene of Probing for Next Few Months Many Witnesses.

PUEBLO, Jan. 16.—Under the direction of M. C. Burch, assistant United States attorney, E. H. Long, special United States attorney, and S. D. Church, special agent of the department of justice, an investigation into public land frauds will be prosecuted from the Pueblo federal building during the next two months.

Messrs. Long and Church arrived in the city today, after spending several months collecting evidence in the southwestern portion of the state. Representatives of corporations, alleged to have been illegally using government coal and timber lands in Colorado, will be summoned from all parts of the state.

When the committee completes its work here, it will report to Washington and action will follow immediately to recover damages for timber fraudulently used and to oust illegal holders of coal lands.

DENVER PRESS CLUB PROUD

Guggenheim Associate Member of Club—Congratulatory Letter.

DENVER, Jan. 16.—The Denver Press club, composed of a majority of the members of the newspaper profession in this city, sent the following congratulatory letter to Simon Guggenheim, United States senator-elect from Colorado, expressing pride in the fact that the choice has fallen on one who has always proved himself a manly friend to the newspaper profession.

"The Denver Press club desires to extend the heartiest congratulations of all our fellow members, and express something of the pride we feel in your selection to represent the state of Colorado in the senate of the United States.

"The club takes pride in the fact that the choice has fallen on one who has ever proved himself a manly friend to all in the newspaper profession, and has never failed to show that he was in sympathy with its purposes and membership."

Mr. Guggenheim is an associate member of the club.

TARIFF A "BIG STICK"

WILL COMPEL OTHER POWERS TO BEHAVE.

Cannon Expresses Views and Republican Policy at Informal Reception at Capitol.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Speaker Cannon extended an informal reception at the capitol today to 300 delegates to the convention for the extension of foreign commerce. Chairman William M. Carroll of New York, presented the appeal of commercial interests for tariff changes and ship subsidy. Mr. Cannon, responding, declared the Republican policy is to monopolize the home market and then establish a foreign market for the surplus.

"Reciprocity is a sweet word," he said. "Its meaning depends on the man or the leader who uses it."

He reviewed the reciprocity labor of Mr. Blaine and showed how the Democratic party, as he said, undid Mr. Blaine's work.

A statement of Mr. Cannon's that maximum and minimum tariff is practicable, was greeted with applause, and the speaker explained how carefully such a tariff must be drawn to afford protection to American interests and clothe the executive with power to retaliate when other nations discriminate against the products of the United States.

Mr. Cannon declared that the maximum tariff would be a "big stick" to be used in compelling other powers to behave themselves.

The speaker reviewed the provisions of the Littlefield bill, on the full which is about to be reported to the house and said the assistance to mail lines provided for in the measure should not be called a subsidy, but merely the spending of the money we get from sea service to promote sea service.

DAVIDSON PRODUCES EVIDENCE

Bailey's Supporters Object to Its Consideration Unless Senator Is Present, and Nothing Done.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 16.—Attorney General Davidson appeared in the house today with the documentary evidence which it is charged implicates Senator Bailey in connection with the readmission of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, in violation of the antitrust laws of the state.

Senator Bailey's supporters objected to consideration of the matter unless he was present and unless Senator Bailey could look over it at the same time with the members. It was then suggested that the attorney general be required to prove the correctness of the papers.

Both propositions were voted down. The attorney general filed the evidence with the speaker, pending further developments. The house then resumed argument as to whether there shall be an investigation.

SHOULD BE ENFORCED

THE TREATY WITH JAPAN IS BINDING.

Representative Foster Discusses Power of the Government Relative to School Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—In discussing the right of the general government to enforce the treaty made between this government and a foreign government, Representative Foster of Vermont today, while the house was considering the District of Columbia appropriation bill, took profound ground in support of the president's contention that the government should see to it that the treaty between the United States and Japan is rigidly observed.

"The constitution," said Mr. Foster, "confers upon the national government the treaty-making power without qualifying words and provides that all treaties made under the authority of the United States, shall be a part of the supreme law of the land.

He said he would spend no time on the academic question whether the treaty-making power lies in grant or in sovereignty, because it was his belief that whatever theory is taken the scope of the power of the federal government is the same.

Mr. Foster would not say whether there was contained expressly or impliedly, in a treaty with Japan, a clause that we would have to provide schools for the Japanese in our midst.

"If it is contained in the treaty, and if it is deemed unwise there is a proper and honorable method by which to secure its modification. If, however, it is in the treaty, so long as the treaty remains in force it is binding on the conscience of the people of the state and it is the sworn duty of the president to enforce its provisions as a part of the supreme law of the land. In doing this, he shall not be charged with attempting to coerce a sovereign state."

He pointed out that the power of the government, within its jurisdiction, is absolute and uncontrollable; "it extends over the people and to the farthest corner of the remotest state."

DIXON WILL SUCCEED CLARK

Is Elected U. S. Senator From Montana—Will Support President.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 16.—Congressman Joseph M. Dixon, Republican of Missoula, today was formally elected United States senator to succeed W. A. Clark, Democrat of Butte. Senator-elect Dixon addressed the assembly. He declared himself [illegible] tion of Senatorial candidates in state party conventions and pledged himself to support President Roosevelt.

INITIAL STEP IN TEST CASE

Validity of Law Excluding Japs From Frisco Schools to Be Tested in Courts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—The initial step in the international test case between Japan and the United States, over the exclusion of Japanese children from the public schools of this city attended by whites will be taken tomorrow.

At 9 o'clock in the morning Kei Kochi Aoki, a ten-year-old Japanese boy accompanied by his father, will appear at the Hancock primary school, and demand admission. His demand being made, it will be refused by the teacher. Miss M. E. Deane on the ground that she is acting under the state law and under instructions from the school board. Witnesses will be on hand to make affidavits to the exclusion of Aoki from the school. The issue having thus been declared, suit will at once be filed in the federal court by the United States district attorney.

1,000 MAY BE DEAD

JAMAICA DISASTER HORRIBLE IN EXTREME.

90,000 BELIEVED HOMELESS

AUTHENTIC INFORMATION DIFFICULT TO OBTAIN.

REPORTS VERY CONFLICTING

Dispatches Received at London to Effect That Only One Hundred Lives Were Lost—America's Action in Offering Relief Complimented.

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Jan. 16.—Reports received here from Jamaica say it is estimated that 1,000 persons have been killed by the earthquake and fire and that 90,000 persons are homeless. The damage to Kingston alone is placed at fully $10,000,000.

Advices received from Jamaica declare that all people have been warned to keep away from Kingston. The stench is described as awful. Money is useless. The banks have been burned but the vaults are supposed to be safe.

Misery Indescribable.

The misery on all sides is indescribable. Rich and poor alike are homeless. Provisions of all kinds are urgently needed. It is impossible to say where anybody can be found.

Sir James Ferguson, vice chairman of the [illegible] among the killed. The dead are being buried under smouldering ruins. The mercantile community suffered most severely, warehouses falling on them. Many professional men are dead or injured. The negroes are looting. Ghastly scenes are being witnessed.

All the shops have been destroyed and all the buildings in and around Kingston are in ruins. Very few of them are safe to live in. The governor and his party are safe.

It is reported that an extinct volcano in the parish of Portland is showing signs of activity, but this has not been verified. No news has yet been received from others parts of the island of Jamaica communication being very difficult.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The brief dispatches received here tonight, including some from Kingston, direct, declaring that 100 persons had been killed in the earthquake of Monday, leave the country a prey to renewed suspense as to the fate of Jamaica's capital.

Earlier reports, including government dispatches, had tended to minimize the worst features of the first messages received, and although there is an inclination still to credit these official accounts in the absence of confirmation of the later reports, the relief felt this afternoon tends to give place to despondency at the possibility that the worst fears will be realized when the full accounts of the district come to hand.

Two things stand out from the gloom and bring intense satisfaction to the British public. The first is the fact, confirmed tonight in a dispatch from Sir Alfred Jones, that the Jones party are all safe.

The second is found in the prompt and active steps taken by the American government to investigate the real conditions and afford the necessary succor to the unfortunate city.

Appreciate America's Action.

Special appreciation is felt at Secretary Metcalf's decision to act without waiting for congressional sanction. All possible steps are being taken here on the same, but America's generous action is none the less appreciated.

The king and queen and also the premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, have hastened to telegraph expressions of the country's sympathy, and public bodies are arranging to hold meetings to express their sympathy and afford relief to the victims.

Up to a late hour tonight, the colonial office had no further news to communicate and the public found satisfaction that the casualties among the English residents in the island had been few.

At the time of writing this message, however, a message was received from Sir Alfred Jones, addressed to Elder, Dempster and company which confirms the worst fears. The dispatch follows:

Kingston Overwhelmed.

"Kingston overwhelmed by an earthquake Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. All the houses within a radius of ten miles have been damaged, and almost every house in the city is destroyed. Fire broke out after the earthquake and completed the destruction. It is estimated that 100 persons have been killed and 1,000 injured. The public offices and hospitals are in ruins. Among the killed are Sir James Ferguson, many prominent merchants and professional men and great many natives. There were no fatalities at the Constant Springs hotel. The business quarter of Kingston is now smouldering ashes. We are thankful that our party is all right."

This dispatch from Sir Alfred is practically identical with other messages received from Kingston, including one from a correspondent of the Standard, who is with the Jones party with the exception that all the others give the death list as "several hundred," while a dispatch of a similar purport received by the direct West Indian Cable company says the loss of life was "heavy," and adds that Port Antonio was not badly injured.

Reports Conflict.

At the present time therefore, it is quite impossible to form a reliable idea

PRESIDENT TALKS

DISCUSSES SANTO DOMINGO AND OTHER TOPICS.

IS GIVEN A ROYAL OVATION

APPEARS BEFORE COMMERCE EXTENSION DELEGATES.

DEFINES COUNTRY'S POSITION

Says Interference of U. S. at Santo Domingo Was Necessary—Advocates Increase of Navy—"Is Cheapest Insurance This Country Has."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—President Roosevelt was given a great ovation tonight when he addressed the delegates to the national convention for the extension of foreign commerce of the United States. A delegate from one of the far-western states mounted a chair and proposed "Three cheers for Teddy Roosevelt, president of the United States." For ten minutes the 600 delegates cheered the president.

The president's speech was devoted to a discussion of this government's policy in putting Santo Domingo on her feet, reform in the consular service and extension of the nation's trade into South and Central America and the orient. He made a general plea for a larger navy and for the merchant marine.

The president declared that it was a pleasure to greet the delegates. He paid a tribute to Secretary Root and declared that the minute we leave American soil our party lines are disregarded and we are all Americans.

Indorses Root's Declarations.

"What Secretary Root has already said, has my unqualified indorsement," said the president. He said he would talk on three subjects already referred to by Secretary Root. First, our relations with Santo Domingo; second, the consular service, and third, the extension of our trade in Central and South America.

"The first duty of the government," the president said, "is to help Santo Domingo stand on her feet." He referred to the pending treaty which, he declared, if adopted, will remove all danger in future of any necessity of intervention. He reviewed the causes which led up to the United States taking a hand in the affairs of the island republic, and explained the objects of the proposed treaty.

For Self-Protection.

"Two years ago," said the president, "things in Santo Domingo got into such shape that we became satisfied certain European powers, if we did not take some steps to better conditions, would themselves take possession of certain ports in the islands. We had to act to prevent action by others. Since then we have been striving to develop some scheme by which Santo Domingo could incur financial prosperity and stability that would enable her to pay the just debts that she owes to outsiders. While at the same time, being free from any possibility of aggression by outsiders or by ourselves. We will not go into details of the present arrangement—an arrangement as yet in part only tentative—but the salient features are that we are trying to negotiate a treaty by which we shall loan to Santo Domingo certain moneys to collect the customs revenues, 45 per cent to be turned over to the government of the island for its own expenses, the rest to be applied in accordance with the agreement entered into between the republic and her creditors for the settlement of her debts."

The president then took up the question of reform in the consular service and praised the conference's work in this connection.

"I believe that a great improvement has been worked in the consular service," he said, "but I do not believe the power of removal should be restricted."

Closing Door on Unfit.

The president declared that both in the civil and military service he keeps open the door of ready exit for the unfit. He said that no one except himself had the power to close this door.

He urged the passage of laws by the present congress that will extend American trade to every section of the globe. He said that a bill incorporating the suggestions made by Secretary Root in his Kansas City speech had been prepared, and expressed the hope that it would be passed at this session of congress.

"This bill," he added, "is absolutely needed if we are to meet foreign competition."

The president declared that there is no doctrine advanced by any nation that conflicts with the Monroe doctrine, in advancing the cause of peace.

"The prime boast of the United States navy is to avert war," he declared in discussing the needs of a bigger navy and the wisdom of preparing for war in the time of peace. "The United States navy is the cheapest insurance this nation has. Treat every power with justice, with every courtesy—courtesy is very cheap, but very valuable—and don't give any nation cause for offense."

In conclusion the president declared that he hoped the meeting of the convention would result in a faster line of ships to South America and the Orient.

Cannon Makes Short Talk.

Speaker Cannon in his address declared that the house is making an honest effort to pass at this session a

PREPARE FOR BALL SEASON

Colorado College Athletes Choose Officers and Figure on Team Material.

At the meeting of the Colorado college athletic board held Monday evening Nordine Falk was elected coach for the coming baseball season and G. W. Smith manager. Mr. Falk is a man of wide experience in baseball. He was on the Colorado college team for three years and was one of the best all around third basemen that ever worked with the Tigers. Last year he was coach for the winning Academy team. He is known all over the state as he has played on several crack semi-professional teams. William Smith, the new manager, is well skilled in the management of athletic teams as he was assistant manager of athletics while a student at Wabash university, Indiana.

Captain Fegtmeyer says that the prospects for a winning team are very bright as new men are showing up each day and the largest number of men will try for the team than at any other time in the history of Colorado college athletics.

About 30 men will try for the team and the following are the most promising: Schmidt, Anderson, Johns, Jackson, Sherry, C. L. Smith, Pritchard, Torrey and Siddons, who are the best men for the infield. Those who will try for the outfield are Hyde, Cook, McCleery, M. P. Smith, Morris, Merrill, Lincoln, C. P. Morgan, and Griswold. The pitchers will be Ackley, Lockhart, Sherry and Graham; the catchers, Travis, Mitchell and Turner.

The schedule for the coming year will be made in the near future and is in charge of James K. McClintock.

LOOKS SUSPICIOUS

begged me to stand between him and those twin enemies of his administration, the senators from South Carolina and Ohio, is a gross exaggeration," said Senator Carmack.

"Nor is it true that I have been moved to undertake the president's defense because of my infatuated devotion to the man. I have a great admiration for that strong, brave, large minded gentleman, the secretary of war. My admiration for the president is more temperate and subdued. Seriously, I suppose there is no senator always with the exception of my friend from South Carolina (Mr. Tillman), who is less liable than myself to be suspected of excessive partiality for our present chief executive. The president once said that he would see a certain member of the Tennessee delegation in Hades before he would do anything for him, a remark entirely gratuitous in view of the fact that the person upon whom it was bestowed so had never asked a favor at his hands. But with supreme indifference to his good opinion had criticized him when he was wrong and with like indifference to his good opinion can support him when he is right. I care so little for the hasty ebullitions of that remarkable man that I can see the good as well as the bad in his public conduct, and judge both without passion or prejudice. Nay, in this case, it seems to me that he has acted with remarkable freedom from impulse, with unusually careful deliberation and with an effort to do nothing in it less than complete justice to all concerned. Indeed, I am haunted by the suspicion that the president was more careful to ascertain the facts and to keep within the limits of the law because the offenders were colored than he would have been if they were white.

"So far as the negro race is concerned the only charge that can be justly made against the president is that he has loved the negro not wisely but too well. There is something pathetic in the president's plaintive recital of all that he has done and attempted for the negro race. Yet there is no man in this country today, not even the senator from South Carolina who is so universally and so bitterly hated by the negro as the man who abolished the Indianola postoffice and dined with Booker T. Washington. And now for the reason that the evidences of friendship have been utterly forgotten simply because he has not shown that sympathy with the criminal negro which pervades the negro population of this country from one end of it to the other."

Quoting the resolution of a Boston negro meeting justifying the action of the negro troops, Mr. Carmack said no more damaging indictment of a race could be secured than this one written by itself.

Stab at Foraker

He then turned his attention to Senator Foraker's criticism of Major Blocksom and declared that the senator from Ohio may be God Almighty to the Republican party of Ohio, but not of the universe.

"I can remember with what frantic energy he used to wave the bloody shirt, a shirt dyed with the crimson current of his own rhetoric. I remember how he used to go raging over the land, a bifurcated peripatetic volcano in perennial eruption, belching fire and smoke and melted lava from his age-long and tumultuous bowels. I can see how in public speeches he spattered the [illegible] of his bitterness upon the south until I came to think that the senator wished all the white people of the south had but a single neck, that he might sever it at a blow.

"I would not have to go back forty years to make any inquiries into the senator's pedigree to prove that the senator from Ohio is the last man to sit in judgment in a case of murder where a negro was the murderer and a southern white man was his victim.

"But I will not do the senator such an injustice as to judge his heart by the testimony of his own mouth, and when my southern friends ask me if the senator from Ohio is really as small and bitter as he seems, I tell them that his ferocity is purely oratorical—it is simply the lingering force of a tyrannical habit.

"If the senator from Ohio could convict the president of the charge he has made against him—that of inflicting harsh and brutal punishment without any authority of law, then," continued Mr. Carmack, "he will have placed the president on an eminence of infamy to which no man can take him down."

Maintaining that the president had no alternative in his action Mr. Carmack said:

"It may be a good maxim in criminal jurisprudence that it is better that a guilty men should escape than one innocent should be punished, but it is not true that it is better that 99 murderers shall wear the uniform of the United States and turn its guns to slaughter peaceful citizens than one innocent [illegible] should be discharged. Such a maxim would destroy the discipline of any army."

Senator Stone, following Mr. Carmack, expressed his sympathy for him at that [illegible] the outset promised to be [illegible] [illegible] had been taken out of the [illegible].

Because there was no doubt that an investigation ought to be made for the good of the army, Mr. Stone said he [illegible] the resolution. "I believe the fact obtained will confirm the president's statement of what the facts are. I am profoundly interested to see the president vindicated," he said.

Mr. Stone said he was aware that there was a disposition among Democratic members of the senate to vote against the resolution, but as there was a family feud among Republicans he [illegible] no good reason why Democrats should smother the fire or burn their fingers by pulling out hot chestnuts for the Republicans.

Senator Heyburn, following Mr. Stone, laid down the general principle that the senate had not the power to review the acts of the president.

Mr. Hale insisted that there is no right of imperial power vested in any branch of the government. He regarded the real benefit of the investigation to be simply for the guidance of the senate in future legislation, that the past was a closed book.

Senator Knox declared that commander in chief of the army had the power to dismiss. The president said Mr. Knox had the power to remove all the administrative officers of the government. In the present case he had not abolished the military organizations from which the troops were discharged. He had the right to discharge one soldier and the same power gave him the right to discharge all.

Mr. Knox did not oppose a resolution for an investigation into the facts regarding the dismissal of these soldiers but that he was not in favor of any resolution which in any way challenged the power of the president to act.

Senator Foraker then said he desired to close the debate.

A [illegible] had developed regarding the scope of the inquiry. To show this Mr. Foraker called attention to the preliminary resolutions calling on the president for the facts. No one had taken exception to the form of those resolutions and he quoted Mr. Spooner's remarks at the time favoring their passage.

Mr. Foraker disclaimed that he had attacked the president. He said he believed the president had been imposed on in the evidence upon which he had based his action.

There was, he maintained, no place as yet provided where these men could establish their innocence. He had no doubt a hundred of the men would satisfy the committee that they had no part in the shooting.

After his long service Mr. Foraker said he did not like the hints that had been thrown out that his motives were other than to promote the public good.

To meet all objections which might [illegible] Mr. [illegible] had prepared another resolution which he offered as a substitute for the one pending. He then yielded to the suggestion of Senator Spooner that he proceed tomorrow and the senate adjourned.

so low that any person, rich or poor, can buy and I absolutely guarantee it. I make it to your order—send it to you—you wear it and if it doesn't satisfy you send it back to me and I will refund your money. That is the fairest proposition ever made by a rupture specialist. The banks or any responsible citizen in Marshall will tell you that is the way I do business—always absolutely on the square.

Here is what Mr. Jas. Britton, a prominent manufacturer of Bethlehem, Pa., writes:

C. E. Brooks, Esq. Dear Sir: I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact at times I did not know I had it on. It just adapted itself to the shape of the body and clung to the spot no matter what position I was in. It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They certainly would never regret it. My rupture is all healed up and nothing ever did it but your appliance. Jas. Britton.

If you have tried most everything else come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Write me today and I will send you my book on Rupture and its Cure, showing my appliance and giving you prices and names of people who have tried it and been cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember I use no salves, no harness, no lies—Just a straight business deal at a reasonable price.

MEETS NEXT YEAR IN TRINIDAD

PUEBLO, Jan. 16.—The seventh annual convention of the Colorado Merchants association which has been in progress here for the past two days was brought to a close tonight with the selection of Trinidad as the place of meeting in 1908 and the election of H. A. Galbraith of Fort Collins as president; [illegible] Gardner of Denver secretary; W. [illegible] Wilson of Greeley treasurer, and the naming of other subordinate officers and a board of directors.

During the day the delegates visited a number of the big industrial plants [illegible] tonight.

merchant marine bill that will be satisfactory to all concerned.

"While we are not going to give all you ask for," he said, "it is better that you accept a half loaf than no bread at all."

He suggested that the convention's recommendation for the maximum and minimum tariff was only a journey of one day toward free trade and for one I am opposed to it. A minimum tariff that would protect every industry and every American laborer was the only compromise he would accept.

Secretary Root thanked the delegates for their sympathy and declared that the people's servants in the government service work hard and are not overpaid, are sometimes subjected to much wrong criticism.

Lively Discussion

A lively discussion took place at today's session of the national convention for an extension of foreign commerce, over the question of ship subsidy. The Merchants and Exporters association of New York urged the adoption of a resolution which approved the ship subsidy bill now pending in congress. The convention refused to place itself on record in behalf of the measure before congress, by the adoption of the following resolution:

"We believe that it is imperative that the American merchant marine should be re-established and that new steamship lines to promote speedy communication should be opened, especially with South and Central American ports for the proper extension of our commerce.

"To this end we recommend liberal compensation from the government to American built and American-manned ships for all services rendered, including the carriage of mails and the right to use the ships in time of war."

of the number of lives lost from the information available.

King Edward through the Earl of Elgin, secretary of state for the colonies, telegraphed to Sir Alexander Swettenham, governor of Jamaica, as follows:

"I am commanded by the king to request you to express to the inhabitants of Kingston the horror with which his majesty and the queen have learned of the terrible catastrophe which has befallen the town with the loss of so many lives and the deep sympathy of their majesties with the sufferers and the relations of the killed."

The Earl of Elgin and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman have telegraphed to the governor of Jamaica assurances of the government's sympathy, together with a request for the particulars.

At a meeting of Jamaica proprietors at London tonight at which Sir Neville Lubeck chairman of the West Indies presided, resolutions of sympathy were adopted.

Personal messages were received here during the day announcing the safety of Lord and Lady Dudley, Lord Mount [illegible], Hesketh [illegible], M. P., and others.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Plans looking to the relief of the Jamaica earthquake sufferers were formulated at a meeting tonight of a number of representatives of steamship lines and commercial firms. A committee was named to attend to the collection of funds and the purchasing of supplies.

The steamer Allegheny of the Hamburg American line will sail for Colon Friday next and stop at Kingston. The Prinz Joachim of the same line will sail for Kingston Saturday. The Royal Mail steamer Atrato will sail for the [illegible] Monday. All three will carry such supplies as the committee can secure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The appeal for food supplies for the Kingston earthquake sufferers directed attention to the fact that under ordinary conditions none of the government supplies could be used for outside relief save by special authority of congress. That fact, however, did not prevent Secretary Metcalf from ordering two supply ships with full cargoes at once to Jamaica, leaving for tomorrow the question as to how the supplies are to be given to the needy inhabitants. There are stores of food at San Juan, P. R., and at Havana that might be used for emergency, leaving the department to draw later upon the large stocks at New York.

AFTER VICE PRESIDENT'S SON

Officers Arrive at Home of Young Man Only to Find He Had Left City—Charge Is Perjury.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 16.—N. H. Fairbanks, brother of the vice president, and Charles F. Stewart, an attorney, both of Springfield, O., arrived here today in connection with the grand jury indictment charging Fred C. Fairbanks, son of Vice President Fairbanks, with perjury, alleging that he swore falsely in procuring a marriage license. They visited the office of Prosecutor Alban, examined the indictment and later arranged for two prominent and wealthy citizens to go on the $500 bond asked for young Fairbanks' appearance. It is said the defense will ask that the indictment be nolled because Fairbanks did not make the affidavit necessary to secure the license.

Sheriff Voorhees sent a telegram to the sheriff of Clark county today asking him to cause Fairbanks' arrest.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 16.—Fred C. Fairbanks left the city today only a short time before Sheriff Aftoney received a telegram from Steubenville officers asking that he arrest the young man on the strength of the indictment returned yesterday. Mrs. Fairbanks declined to say where her husband had gone and no further statement was made at his residence here tonight. It is thought Mr. Fairbanks left either for Steubenville or Washington.

NAPLES, Jan. 16.—Professor Matteucci, director of the observatory at Mount Vesuvius, reports increased agitation of this volcano coincident with the Kingston earthquake.

IS ADDED TO HORROR OF FAMINE IN CHINA.

Mat Sheds Torn Down and Thousands Driven Back Towards Their Homes

SHANGHAI, Jan. 16.—To the horrors of famine have been added an outbreak of smallpox among the refugees at Sing Kiang, necessitating the demolition of the mat sheds erected to shelter the thousands who have arrived there in search of food. Captain Kirton reports that 300,000 destitute persons have been driven back toward their homes and that terrible scenes are being enacted along the line of retreat. He estimates that a quarter of a million persons are likely to be doomed at Sing Kiang alone and 400,000 at Antung, where small relief works have been started.

The distress is largely due to lack of means of communication, and the fear that the Chinese officials might appropriate any work they undertake. The dikes being dilapidated, the recent rains are likely to cause fresh floods. Every house in the neighborhood of Antung visited by Captain Kirton contained dead bodies or dying persons.

The relief committee which had 150,000 taels at its disposal, has instituted relief work under foreign supervision.

MAKE APPEAL TO PRESIDENT

Executive Committee of Reciprocal Demurrage Convention Protests Against Car Shortage

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The president today heard an appeal in favor of federal legislation for reciprocal demurrage to [illegible] [illegible] caused by the lack of railway equipment and the delay in moving cars when loaded. The appeal was presented by the executive committee of the national reciprocal demurrage convention recently held in Chicago, headed by Victor H. Beckman of Seattle, chairman.

Not only are the business interests of the country experiencing great losses but these conditions many are facing serious financial troubles. In the lumber industry alone hundreds of mills are shut down with their active capital exhausted and facing pressing obligations to meet which they must depend on selling their product, for the moving of which the railroads do not furnish sufficient cars. Hundreds of coal mine owners are in the same position. Thousands of farmers, especially in the northwest, have already met with heavy losses from the same cause and practically every producing industry in the country, especially those conducted by private firms or corporations, are directly and seriously affected.

The committee also discussed the convention with the Interstate commerce commission. Penalizing of the railroads for the slow movement of loaded cars was suggested.

The suggestions will be considered by the commission in dealing with the general subject of legislative recommendations regarding car shortage.

Unless Dam Is Dynamited, Property Valued at Over a Million Dollars Will Be Destroyed

PITTSBURG, Jan. 16.—Three additional houses were swept away tonight by the high water in the Allegheny river at Springdale, Pa., near here, which broke the dam and is now flooding the low lands. Today six houses were washed down the river, making a total of nine on this side and causing an estimated loss of $10,000. The water is now over 40 feet into the land around the west end of the dam. According to the United States engineers who were preparing to dynamite the dam, the water is washing the river bank away at the rate of sixty feet an hour. The residents of Springdale are moving their household goods to places of safety and much excitement prevails in the borough tonight.

Over a million dollars worth of property is in danger and it is thought the bluffs up of the dam [illegible] will be destroyed.

Major Sibert and a force of men tonight exploded 100 pounds of [illegible] in an unsuccessful attempt to blow up the dam. The volume of water is increasing steadily and already the damage exceeds $50,000. An attempt to demolish the dam will be made as soon as possible.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Mayor Dunne tonight announced his candidacy for the Democratic mayoralty nomination in April on a platform of opposition to the proposed settlement immediately of the street car question.

The prosecution finished its evidence yesterday and the defense will introduce testimony today. It is understood that the officials of prominent social clubs of the city will be subpoenaed to appear as witnesses for the defense. TO ADJUST DIFFICULTIES

FRANK GARNIER HOPES TO SETTLE MINERS' TROUBLES.

Men Decide to Wait Until Sunday Before Taking Decisive Action as to Possible Strike.

Miners employed in the vicinity of Pike View and Papeton held a mass meeting last night at the latter place and decided to postpone any decisive action until next Sunday. This was done at the request of Frank Garnier, vice president of the local district of the United Mine Workers and national organizer of that body in Utah, Wyoming and Colorado. Mr. Garnier arrived in Colorado Springs Tuesday to assume charge of the local office until the return of Secretary John McLennan from the national convention at Indianapolis.

Mr. Garnier will interview the local operators and attempt to arrive at an adjustment of the differences between the employers and their men. The men say that the meeting last Sunday was for the purpose of hearing advices from the national organization, and as none were received, they took no action whatever.

No Difficulty Expected.

"I do not anticipate any great difficulty in the operators and men arriving at a satisfactory adjustment of their differences," said Vice President Garnier. "I am not very familiar with the conditions here, as I was hurriedly called to take charge of this office during Mr. McLennan's absence," he continued. "From the talks I have had with the men it is evident to me that they are not satisfied with their present rate of pay and some other conditions prevailing at the mines in this county. I have asked them to give me until Sunday to meet the operators, before taking any radical steps and they have done so."

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

"KING RICHARD THE THIRD."

The eminent tragedian, Mr. John Griffith, will appear at the Opera house on next Wednesday evening. Mr. Griffith is just now one of the most interesting personalities of stage life, and every season he grows in the esteem of intelligent theatergoers. He represents all that is strenuous, combined with an intellectuality that is rare, thoroughly understanding and appreciating all the glorious lines of Shakespeare, and giving to them an interpretation that is most convincing. His management has this season provided him with a splendid company and equipment. His coming engagement here is looked forward to with unusual interest.

WARD'S REFINED MINSTRELS.

Henry Ward's refined minstrels will appear at the Opera house tomorrow afternoon and evening. Also Saturday afternoon and evening, at popular prices. They give a high-class, clean and moral minstrel entertainment for ladies and children as well as the stronger sex. Every act, trick, song, antic, laughable saying and comedy situation designed with a view to cleanliness, chastity, purity and refinement, and the inventive genius of the world's funny men have been called into action for the production of the one and only first-class minstrel attraction now extant, playing at cheap prices. They carry their own band and orchestra. Look out for the street parade, about noon.

FLORENCE ROBERTS AT OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

At the Opera house this evening the well-known actress, Miss Florence Roberts, supported by a strong company, will present her great New York success, "The Strength of the Weak." The play is a modern problem play, and the part of "Pauline Darcy" assigned to Miss Roberts is said to be the best that she has had in the many that she has been identified with in the west. There must of needs be considerable interest attached to the fact that the play was so well received on the occasion of its New York presentation, and the prediction that it will mark, on its coming, an event in the local dramatic calendar is not amiss. Miss Roberts is fresh from the east, where she has been presenting the play in all of the larger cities, and the company that she has in support comprises practically the cast that appeared with her on the initial presentation of the play. She will, when she comes, locally be just starting on her return trip east, where Mr. Carr, her manager, is under contract to present her for the balance of this season at Daly's theater, New York.

SEATS FOR "SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER."

Preparations are being made to handle a large crowd at the Opera house box office tomorrow morning, when the sale of seats opens for the revival of "She Stoops to Conquer," with its cast of American and English celebrities, headed by William H. Crane and Miss Ellis Jeffreys, which is to be seen on next Tuesday evening. That the sale will be a heavy one is a foregone conclusion. It is seldom that the theatergoing public has the opportunity of seeing Goldsmith's old comedy, and with its present ideal cast, its hope is taking on the semblance of a triumph. In all of the cities in which the revival is announced to be given the interest taken in it has been so great that even those who were most sanguine of the success of the undertaking have been agreeably surprised. One reason for the interest is that Goldsmith's fine old comedy is a delight in itself. Deftly does it picture the men and women, the manners and the wit of the eighteenth century, and never does it transcend truth to the probabilities. It had its original production 132 years ago, and yet its humor is as sparkling today as the day it was written. Not only does the cast contain an array of notables, but what is more to the point, each member of it is particularly adapted to the portrayal of the character in his or her keeping. The production made of the comedy is in keeping with its cast. No effort was spared to make the production a perfect one in all of its most minute details. All of the old prompt books of the play and great masses of material were gone over to have everything connected with the staging of the comedy absolutely correct. The prices of reserved seats will range from $1.00 to $2.50, according to location.

REPORT ON INDIAN AFFAIRS

Selection Committee of Senate Make Many Recommendations in Report.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The selection committee of the senate, appointed during the last session of congress to investigate conditions in Indian Territory, made its report to the senate today through its chairman, Senator Clark, of Wyoming. The committee's recommendations may be summarized as follows:

That the surface of [illegible] acres of coal lands segregated in 1902 be sold, but that the mineral rights be indefinitely retained as the property of the Indians.

That all restrictions be removed from the surplus lands of all citizens of the Five Civilized Tribes, except minors.

That the restrictions on the homesteads of Indians of either full or mixed blood should be retained.

That with reference to oil and gas leases, the regulation requiring a deposit of $5,000 by leasers, should be modified or dispensed with; that leases may be allowed without requiring the consent of the secretary of the interior and that some tribunal in the territory be authorized to perform this service and that the regulations governing pipe lines be so modified as to permit the construction of new lines.

The surface land in the 300,000-acre coal land segregation is estimated to be worth from $10 to $15 an acre and the mineral rights from $5 to $40 an acre.

On the question of the disposal of this tract, the committee recommends that no immediate action be taken by congress as to the leasing or sale of the mineral in said lands, but that immediate steps be taken to provide for the sale of the surface of said segregation for the best price obtainable, in tracts not exceeding 160 acres each, to actual bonafide settlers, reserving from sale a sufficient amount of surface for the necessary outside works, buildings and operations of mines.

The committee believes that Secretary Hitchcock's withdrawal of land for forest purposes was without authority of the law.

At intervals for some time I was greatly annoyed with pains in the small of my back and loins which were always aggravated if I took the slightest cold. On learning that Doan's Kidney Pills were specially recommended for kidney troubles I decided to try them and procured a box at the H. V. Ritchey Drug Co. WHO DOES YOUR THINKING?

Do You? Or Does Someone Else?

What would it mean to you to be well—to get out of the grunting habit? What do you think? What causes all these chronic diseases that are so prevalent? What causes catarrh, bronchitis, consumption, asthma, catarrh of the stomach, bowels and intestines? What causes rheumatism? What causes tumors, paralysis, epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, shortness of breath? What causes dyspepsia and other troublesome stomach diseases? What causes diseases of the kidneys and bladder and diseases of the female organs? What causes diseases of the liver, spleen and appendix? What causes the various diseases of the skin? What do you think?

How can these diseases be cured? Suppose that YOU have contracted one or more of these chronic diseases, what are you going to do about it? Are you going to see a doctor, your family physician, have him look at your tongue, feel your pulse, charge you two dollars and write you a prescription? Are YOU going to take this prescription to a drug store and have it filled with something just as good? Will this procedure cure YOU? Has it ever been proven that the majority of chronic diseases will not yield to drug treatment alone? (Yes) Or will you go to Chicago or New York to a specialist who has all the up to date appliances to treat your case and who charges two dollars a minute for examination and five dollars a minute for treatment? Are YOU rich enough; have you the time to do that?

What's that? You ARE afflicted (or it is your wife or child) with some terrible chronic disease, but can not afford to go to Chicago or New York because the expense is too great and the specialists there charge too much? You HAVE tried the family doctor, the faith healer, the patent medicine route, the hot springs treatment, etc., and are no better? What's that? There ARE no chronic disease specialists in Colorado Springs who are equipped as the Eastern specialists? What about the New York Doctors? Have they not been telling you through the columns of The Gazette for the past four years that they are SPECIALISTS and are equipped to treat all chronic diseases of men, women and children, and that their equipment contains all of the latest and up-to-date appliances for the administration of electricity, hot air treatment for rheumatism, and all mechanical instruments? Have you not read that they charge nothing for consultation, and that their charges for treatment are so reasonable that they are within the reach of all? Have you not read that they treat patients by the mail and furnish all their medicines from their own laboratories, thereby assuring you that you get just what is needed in your individual case? Do you not remember that your neighbor, or was it your neighbor's wife, took treatment from the New York Doctors and was cured?

Now that you know this, don't you think that you had better call and consult them about your condition tomorrow morning and get their opinion? What do you think?

THE PURE FOOD BILL.

ALREADY it seems certain that the pure food bill is to have a hard time in the Colorado legislature. Organized opposition has developed, and in the House yesterday attempts were made to encumber the bill so that its enforcement would be very difficult. The bill will probably reach the Senate in a mangled form, and if it gets through that body at all it will probably be in such shape as to be ineffective.

All over the country legislatures are considering legislation to regulate the purity of the foods, drugs, medicines and liquors manufactured and sold within their respective borders. Such state legislation is necessary to supplement the Federal Pure Food Act passed by Congress last June. Congress went as far as it could under the Constitution, but it could extend its regulations only to commodities which enter into interstate commerce. This act went into effect on the first of the present month, and though it is still too early to judge of its efficiency, it is safe to predict that its effect will be highly beneficial. But it is still possible for manufacturers to adulterate foods, medicines, drugs and liquors which do not enter into interstate commerce, and goods of this class make up a very large proportion of the total amount sold. For example, much of the canned vegetables, pickles, etc., consumed in Colorado is put up in Denver, and there is nothing in the Federal pure food law or in any other existing statute to prevent its sale within this state.

The importance of this subject probably is not fully realized by the public, though it has been widely discussed during the last year. There is scarcely a variety of canned, preserved, pickled or dried food that is not adulterated by the addition of deleterious substances. Chemical dyes are universally used to simulate the natural color of fruits and vegetables, and most of these are poisonous. Another class of food products are adulterated by the addition of usually harmless substances which are added merely to give increased weight or bulk, but which nevertheless are a swindle on the purchaser. The same methods are used in the manufacture of drugs, medicines and liquors, and the evil has attained such proportions as to constitute a serious danger to the public health.

Opposition to the enactment of any law designed to put an end to this kind of wrongdoing is always to be expected, for there is too much capital invested in it, and too many people are interested to admit of a ready surrender of the graft. It may be that many of the state legislatures which are now considering the subject including that of Colorado, will pass laws which are purposely made ineffective, but the public is gradually learning of the harmful effects of food adulteration and its insistence on adequate laws for the protection of the consumer will soon be too strong to be ignored.

THE JAPANESE BUGABOO.

TALK of the possibility or probability of war between the United States and Japan goes on with only slightly diminished interest in the columns of those papers which profess to see a casus belli in every diplomatic complication. Comparisons of the military and naval efficiency of the two nations fill columns of precious space that might better be devoted to something else, and the "little brown man" with his fatalistic disregard for his life and his all-consuming desire to sacrifice himself for the glory of his country is being discussed almost as avidly as in the days of the Russo-Japanese War. But now the view-point is different. Then the "little brown man" was making a heroic stand against the aggression of a thieving European power, and of course he was an object of unqualified sympathy; but now he is regarded as the possible instrument for the extinction of Western civilization and the erection of a world-wide Eastern empire on its ruins. It is to be the old conflict of the field of Tours over again, with the difference that machine guns and up-to-date battleships will take the place of the lance and the battle-ax.

Somehow we find ourselves unable to get excited over this dire prospect. In the first place, there is no question at issue which admits of even a possibility of war between America and Japan. The incident of the California schools certainly does not furnish such a cause, and even if it did the possibilities of war are so enormous that both nations would hesitate a long time before entering upon one. Japan would necessarily be the aggressor, and in the present state of her resources, she simply can not afford to fight. She is completely exhausted financially, which was the real reason for terminating the war with Russia, and it would be very difficult for her financiers to raise money enough to carry on a conflict with the United States for even one month. It was easy enough to start a fight with Russia, which was in even more desperate financial straits than herself, but if Russia had been able to provide the sinews of war for a year longer the outcome of the struggle would have been very different. The United States, with its enormous resources, could carry on a war with Japan indefinitely, and not all the money which that nation could borrow both at home and in Europe would suffice to keep her forces in the field long enough to achieve a final triumph.

But there is another important factor in the situation which makes for peace between the United States and Japan. This is the Anglo-Japanese treaty, by the terms of which Great Britain is bound to give armed assistance to her ally in case it becomes involved with any other power. British diplomacy might be able to find a way out of this responsibility, and unquestionably if war became a certainty every effort of British statesmen would be exerted to this end, for no greater calamity could befall Great Britain, and in fact the entire world, than a war with the United States, even with Japan to aid her.

The Japanese are often called the "Yankees of the Orient," and if they are good Yankees they are necessarily good bluffers. But no show of indignation, [illegible] anything else, will convince the intelligent American public that they will fight this country unless they are actually driven to it. They have everything to lose and nothing to gain. They have won the prestige of a first-class power by defeating a European nation which was generally supposed to be one of the strongest in the world, but which events showed was fatally weak in its most vital points. The only safe role for Japan now is to remain at peace with the world and bend every energy toward paying off her debts and developing her resources. Meanwhile the United States will proceed as it has in the past, avoiding conflicts with other nations but preparing for any that may be unavoidable by strengthening its sea forces, for in this age victory belongs to the nation that controls the sea.

THE WAY THEY DO IT IN ITALY.

A FEW days ago, the Honorable John Wesley Gaines, a Tennessee statesman of credit and renown, resolved himself into a young cyclone and threatened to wipe up the floor with Representative Mahon of Pennsylvania, because that gentleman had intimated that Mr. Gaines had told "an untruth." No blows were exchanged and nobody was hurt, though Mr. Gaines sprinted down the aisle toward his would-be adversary in a way which indicated that he meant business. Nevertheless the incident was so unusual that it was "played up" by the papers all over the country. This fact in itself is a good commentary on the orderliness and good behavior of the American Congress, a point in which it differs from nearly every other important legislative body in Europe. The members of the British Parliament usually manage to refrain from violent language in debate, but on the continent personal encounters are frequent and sometimes disastrous, often resulting in cracked craniums and smashed furniture.

The following report of a recent sitting of the Italian Chamber of Deputies, translated from a Rome newspaper, conveys an idea of how they do it in Italy:

"The Socialist Deputy Ferri demanded the floor to reply to M. Santini, who had accused him, in his absence the day before, of having declared, in a speech at Bologna, that every Italian general had run away on the field of battle.

M. Ferri had said, being familiar with history, that against the Austrians and in Africa many Italian generals had taken flight.

The President of the Chamber—"You insult the army; I can not allow you to continue."

M. Santini to M. Ferri—"You are the father of cowardice. Be quiet, you good-for-nothing."

M. Ferri to M. Santini—"You have twice been slapped in the face and made no response."

M. Santini—"I have always fought."

M. Giolitti, President of the Council—"The country does not believe in these humbugs."

M. Ferri—"At the battle of Adowa, in Africa, the generals ran away."

A violent tumult here arose in the Chamber and the discussion could not be heard.

M. Giolitti—"You were not there."

M. Ferri—"Neither were you."

M. Giolitti—"Your words are unworthy of the Parliament. I scorn your opinions."

M. Ferri—"It is the word of a gentleman, addressed to rogues."

M. Santini—"You are a coward."

Insults and denunciations filled the air, the deputies loudly denouncing the speech of M. Ferri, the members of the Government arose to leave the Chamber. Seeing this, M. Ferri cried:

"Go, brigands! You are unworthy to sit here, Banque Romaine! Thieves! Banque Romaine!"

At this allusion to the old disputes on the Roman Bank, M. Giolitti turned fiercely and rushed toward the Left, but the Ministers of Agriculture and of Postes restrained him.

M. Bertetti came up to M. Ferri's seat, seized him and said, "I spit in your face, you vile hog!"

Several Deputies interposed, but the altercation was such that the President ordered the gendarmes to clear the tribunes.

MM. Ferri and Santini continued to abuse each other. Finally the incident was closed and the Chamber adjourned.

So it appears that even Tillman, Gaines, and the other wild men of the American Congress have something to learn in the gentle art of vituperation from our Latin cousins.

BROUGHT FROM PARADISE.

From the Minneapolis (Kan.) Index.

J. B. Archer came down from Paradise last week and remained over Sunday. He is still the same old John and is still handling stock. Everybody was glad to see him and he received the glad hand from scores of old neighbors.

A FEARFUL BLOW.

From the Foss (Kan.) Enterprise.

The editor of this paper had hard luck last week, when, without any apparent cause, his big, fat hog that he was depending on for about half his next year's living, died, but if delinquent subscribers will treat us well, possibly we can buy another.

BARGAIN DAY FOR HYMEN.

From the Kansas City Journal.

The ministers and justices of Goltroy made a special bargain sale on marriage ceremonies New Years day, exacting only the usual kiss for their valuable services. They announce, however, that all who did not take advantage of this snap must pay $25 hereafter. The editor of the Goltroy News mourns because he could not get the necessary girl on such short notice.

NORTH CAROLINA WONDERS.

From the Wilkesboro Chronicle.

Mr. Tom Pennel was down in Allonch last week and stayed over night with Mr. Moses Armstrong. He tells us that Mr. Armstrong has a wonderful pet pig, and he saw it himself with a broom sweeping out the yard. Of course, the pig couldn't do as well at sweeping as some of his two-legged brethren, but it was wonderful to see how hard the pig worked and what progress he made. Mr. Armstrong says he has a wonderful gander, too. The gander will climb an apple tree, shake it and then get down and eat the apples. Mr. Pennel says he did not see the gander, but after seeing the pig sweep he believed anything Mr. Armstrong told him.

THE CASE OF GUGGENHEIM.

From the Kansas City Star.

A resolution in the Colorado legislature to investigate Simon Guggenheim's alleged purchase of the United States senatorship was voted down after a stormy debate. While as yet Mr. Guggenheim is not elected he is the Republican caucus selection and will undoubtedly be the legislative choice. The other day in an interview, he said, in reply to the charge that he had purchased his seat, that under the present system of politics a great deal of money is required to finance campaigns and because he was in a position to do that and contribute largely to the state Republican campaign fund he did not consider that he had been dishonorable. He urged that he is rich enough to be independent and will represent the interests of the people of Colorado.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Guggenheim indirectly purchased his seat in the senate. He was never dreamed of as a factor in politics until after he had lavishly financed several campaigns of the then losing Republican state party. From an easy thing for the bosses he forced himself up a position to be reckoned with, and finally received his reward. There is no charge that he has been guilty of bribery, he simply furnished the money to elect the men who will elect him.

In the senate Mr. Guggenheim will not be in a class by himself. There are other senators who indirectly bought their seats, and several who directly purchased them. There are two classes of men in the senate who are not the choice of the people—those who secured their election much as Mr. Guggenheim did—using their own money, and those who are there because some trust, some railroad combination or some syndicate operating in defiance of laws put them there as agents.

Of these two breeds of senators Mr. Guggenheim is in a class probably to be preferred. His election was to gratify his personal vanity and that vanity may go so far as to make him as good a senator as a man can be whose associations have always been among high financiers. As he says, he is rich enough to be independent. But for the other class there is no hope. A man who is so eager for a senatorship as to allow a corporation to elect him is of necessity without honor. His owners make certain that he cannot betray them, and his senatorial toga is but the livery of a trust or a railroad. There are worse men in the senate than Guggenheim, and they are still coming.

Press Opinions

CONSIDERATION OF A MOTORIST.

From St. James's Gazette.

We hold no brief for the motorist, the Bystander says, but "honor where honor is due." On a country road the other day we saw a motorist deliberately avoid running over an animal on the highway! To be exact, it was a circus elephant.

GOOD TIMES IN GERMANY, TOO.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Those who fancy that the United States have a monopoly of prosperity are not keeping the run of things. Germany seems to be flourishing as greatly as we are. The industries of the country are busy and prosperous to a greater degree than ever before. Mines and furnaces have orders booked for months ahead and the railroads are unable to cope with the traffic requirements. Labor is unusually scarce, but in spite of that fact records are being broken in every line.

ANOTHER TELEPHONE INFLICTION.

From the Minneapolis Journal.

Germany reports that attempts at telephoning without wires have already attained such success that a scientist announces the approach of the time when wireless telephony is going to be a commercial success. Already conversations have been carried on over a distance of twenty-four miles and only the perfection of the apparatus used seems necessary for extending the system. So we may look forward cheerfully to the time when we rush to the wireless, ring up central to tune us up to some friend's telephone key and hear her shift her gum and answer sweetly but firmly, "The air is busy."

TOUCHING THE SCHOOLMAM'S PRIDE.

From the Hartford, Conn., Times.

A man in Pennsylvania urges that a tax be imposed on bachelors and that the proceeds of the levy be applied to the teachers' pension fund. Hitherto the American schoolma'am has displayed a fine capacity for taking care of herself. This Pennsylvania reformer proposes to have bachelordom assist in taking care of her. We imagine that the school teacher in petticoats would scorn to ask bachelors to help her do what she is capable of doing unaided. In the course of every year the schoolma'ams of the nation cause a great many men to swap the bachelor life for the married life, but no problem of taxation enters into the proceedings.

OUR AGED NAVAL OFFICERS.

From the Newark, N. J., Advertiser.

Our navy is overweighted with age in its personnel. Before an officer can attain a position as captain or flag officer he is about 60 years old. The youngest captain in the United States navy is 53 and he has served only four and a half years. The youngest flag officer is 59. There is a marked difference in other navies. In that of Great Britain the youngest captain in command at sea is 35 and he has served [illegible] years; this grade. In France the youngest is 47; in Germany, 42; in Japan, 38. The youngest flag officer in the British navy is 45, fourteen years younger than the youngest American flag officer.

Colorado Comment

ENVY OF THE VIRULENT TYPE.

From the Lamar Sparks.

Pueblo papers recently recorded the death of an old settler who had lived in that city continuously for thirty-eight years. Nothing that the future might hold could possibly have any terrors for that man.

FACTORY WOULD PAY.

From the Boulder Herald.

It is claimed that the farmers of this section of the state are raising more beets than the factories can grind and make into sugar and that it would be an easy matter to secure enough beet acreage to keep a large sugar factory at work in Boulder. This is no doubt true. The beets could as easily be brought to Boulder as to any other town in the state and a factory could be made to pay here as well as anywhere.

BIG STICK FOR LAND HOG.

From the Salida Mail.

Uncle Sam is in real earnest when he says the land hog must be banished. He is going after them rough shod and already two or three millionaire cattlemen of Nebraska have been convicted of fraud in efforts to gain title to the acres of government land which comprises a stock ranch now being held from the home seekers by them. Roosevelt is certainly right in this matter and will have the indorsement of a very great majority of the American people in his efforts.

TURKEYS AND DAIRY PRODUCTS.

From the Telluride Journal.

Few, very few, if any, cold storage turkeys found a Christmas market in Colorado this year. We never looked upon a finer display of plump, plump, home-grown fowls than the local markets presented their patrons the last ten days. The farmers of the valleys have taken to growing fowls for home markets, and have put the cold storage article, raised thousands of miles away, and not infrequently held in cold storage from one holiday season over to the next, out of business. This is as it should be. Now they should get busy along dairy lines. Colorado ranches should not only supply Colorado markets with butter and cheese and all dairy products, but should have a liberal surplus to ship into neighboring states. This is an industry that has been neglected in the past.

THE MAN WITH THE SAFETY-RAZOR SHAVE

Tells How It Feels to Go Blind—Queer Experiences When Looking at Scenery or Familiar Faces.

A MAN with a safety-razor shave was talking.

"I should think," he said, continuing the talk along the lines in which it had drifted, "that in the case of the instantaneous obliteration of vision the unfortunate person would not have much to tell about the experience of becoming blind.

"He might attempt to portray the frightful realization of his calamity, though it is not probable that a man so suddenly struck blind fully comprehended at once what had happened. Anyway he would have none of the queer experiences that attend the gradual yet rather swift loss of vision that may result from certain diseases of the eye.

"When I was a young man I once went up in a balloon. A reporter who saw the ascension wrote that 'the great yellow bag ascended rapidly with a majestic sweep toward the east, and soon became a dot in the distant sky,' or something like that.

"But that is not the way it looked from the basket of the balloon. As we saw it, everything beneath us slipped away rapidly in a downward dip toward the west. Lower and lower fell the earth, until it looked like a great bowl beneath us, moving westward and with its rim on a level with the balloon. There we hung, poised motionless, as it seemed to us. The only stationary objects in the universe.

Fault Not With the Eye.

"Some years ago, when I was becoming blind, the illusions of that experience reminded me of the aeronautic illusion that the balloon was stationary and all other things were moving. In a word, the fault seemed to be with the objects looked at, and not with the eyes that were looking.

"My sight had always been remarkably good. I have seen with the naked eye what comparatively few human beings have seen with telescopic aid—satellites of Jupiter, two of them almost in conjunction showing as a single point of light.

"For many years my work was exceedingly trying to the eyes. One day I noticed that the light, although about the same as that in which I had worked for years, seemed insufficient, and upon making the light stronger it seemed as if the fault must be with the objects looked at. This was the beginning of the illusions of a swiftly failing vision.

"I went to a specialist and he looked into my eyes with his instrument.

"'Do you drink whisky?' he asked.

"'A little.'

"'Smoke?'

"'A lot.'

"'Well, drop them both,' said the specialist gravely. 'Don't work with your eyes and be very careful of them, and you will be less likely to lose your vision entirely. That's all I can do for you at present.'

How It Feels to Go Blind.

"In the next two weeks I experienced the various stages of coming blindness up to the stage at which I could stand by my south window at noon on a clear day and barely find the sun. Not that I was quite or nearly stone blind, but the noonday brightness blinded me, and when I turned my eyes to where I knew the sun must be I saw only a black sky.

"Yet I could see the sun. I discovered by accident, by glancing at it in a side wise fashion, or out of the corners of the eyes. I felt not the slightest pain or disagreeable sensation in the eyes from glancing toward the sun, and perhaps the absence of pain or unnatural feeling there was what made it seem to me as if the fault was with the objects seen and not with my sight.

"I will tell you some of the queer things I saw at various stages of my failing vision without attempting to put them in the order in which they came. These freaks of vision were the results of dimness of sight, of slowness of focusing or receiving the impression, and of a sort of color blindness.

"I saw from my window one of the most beautiful views in a large park, only the June grass was of the color of ripe wheat straw and the foliage was likewise straw colored. The lawns looked like gleaned grain fields. The flower beds were impressionist pictures: bunks of yellow splashed with patches of flame and of blue and green and odd, unnatural tints.

"I sat by the driveways and saw the afternoon equipages go past, and such a procession I had never seen before. It was all in silhouette.

"All the persons out driving were solemn-looking negroes, riding in carriages with spokeless wheels, drawn by legless horses. The bodies of the horses looked queer enough, moving along at the right distance from the ground, with only a glimmer beneath them.

All Faces Looked Hideous.

"I saw my wife as I had never seen her before, and as I hope no one else ever saw her—an image's face of dull brass, with glassy eyes, yellow teeth and the sort of fuzzy arches for eyebrows that they glue onto masks. Her complexion is olive and there is plenty of color in her cheeks, but there was no color but that of dull brass in the face of the image into which she had been transformed.

"No faces were good looking to me; even the children were hideously unnatural little things, with their yellow faces and glassy eyes. To add to their ugliness, all the tow-headed and yellow-haired ones were white-haired. Red-headed men and golden blondes were white haired, too.

"I remembered the saying that the Lord never made two persons that looked exactly alike, but so far as I could see he had made plenty of them as alike as two peas. I never understood before upon what delicate lines individuality of features depends, and on these lines was invisible to me.

"I addressed as friends, strangers who resembled them only in general contour of features, and I failed to recognize old friends until I heard their voices. All this time I was able to go about without assistance, and when I made mistakes as to the identity of acquaintances who had not been aware of my infirmity, one of them remarked, in answer to my apology:

"'Why, your eyes look perfectly well.'

"'Yes,' I said to one of them; 'they look better than they are.'

"He laughed and said:

"'Your sense of humor is sharpened by your partial loss of sight.'

"Then it dawned upon me that I had made a joke unawares.

"Here the man with the safety-razor shave scratched a match with his right hand and brought that hand against his left, in which he held a cigar. The proper ends of the match and cigar were brought near together, and with his hands in that position he raised the cigar to his lips and began puffing vigorously.

"That's an odd habit I got when I first began to allow myself a cigar once in a while. I couldn't see the flame and used to get the match and cigar into position partly by the sense of feeling," he explained, as he noticed a smile.

"'But you didn't lose your sight after all,' a listener remarked.

"'Oh, no,' said the man; 'it has been coming back very slowly for a long time, and now I can see to shave myself.'

WISDOM.

From Life.

Wisdom is a friendly thief, often robbing experience of its most formidable weapon regret.

Wisdom is acquired when we are too old to profit by it, and then we are only in the primary department.

Wisdom and education are not related. Education may be purchased like a commodity at any university. Wisdom is not for sale.

There are shades of wisdom, just as there are shades and degrees of folly. Because a man is not always wise, it does not follow necessarily that he is a fool. If it were so, the majority of us would be wearing cap and bells. Indeed, it is a question whether the benefits and results of wisdom are all that is claimed for it—whether it really justifies itself after all. For example, the wise man buys life insurance at an early age and lives to pay his premiums annually with wearisome regularity. That is because the company is a degree wiser than he.

Women are wiser than men. If you do not believe it, ask one of them.

Infants are wiser than either. They are the personification of wisdom. What a pity that they are not a little wiser—wise enough to remain as they are, with a small area to rule and a few claws to fan and bathe them.

SUPERIORITY OF THE ENGLISH TONGUE

From Success Magazine.

English is spoken by about 120,000,000, and Spanish by about 53,000,000. The difference is not due to any inherent superiority of the English language, but to the superiority of the English stock. The English not only have the greater genius for commercial and political co-operation and colonizing, but they have, as well, built up their institutions on the enduring basis of righteousness and respect for law. Spanish is incomparably more musical than English, and practically phonetic, while English is handicapped by its arbitrary spelling. On the other hand, English is often briefer, though not always. Spanish can say "I will go" in one word "Ire." The great advantage of English is its double vocabulary, one of Teutonic and one of Latin origin, which enables it to make nice distinctions. It has also acquired the power to assimilate words from every language under the sun. These facts, together with the greater intellectual activity of the English race in many fields of human endeavor, have swelled its vocabulary to startling figures. The "Standard Dictionary" contains over 317,000 words. I do not believe any Spanish dictionary contains half as many.

A STATEMENT OF PARTY PRINCIPLES

I never was no Democrat, an' I don't want to be;
The manners of a Democrat aint in our natures.
My good old father took me young, an' pointed out with pride
How all the greatest Christian laws was made up on our side.
How we'd espoused the cause of right, an' if it need be done
How every honest man of us 'ud back it with his gun!
An' now, right in the face of this, comes Mister Guggenheim,
An' leaves upon this good clean page a long black trail o' slime.
Ef he can buy his title clear to mansions in the skies,
The halfway house is jest as high as I would care to rise.
My folks was of the workin' class, an' [illegible] as the rest,
An' I don't want to have to vote, as I think the other way.
An honest vote's our privilege, with all the people free—
But mind—I aint no Democrat, an' I don't want to be!

THE DISREGARD OF SIGNALS.

From the New York Times.

Before the Rock Island trains crashed together in Kansas a relief train was under way in anticipation of the slaughter which resulted, and which the signalmen who should have prevented it had rather caused. They caused it, so far as available accounts go, not through malice, or defect of apparatus supplied them, but by simple misunderstanding. The operator swears he "thought" the hapless train "was going to stop at the depot to take water, as trains have been doing, but instead it went by." Then followed moments of panic. One lantern after another was swung in warning, and went out, without giving the least hint to those who soon were to be killed. The train had "gone by" without its orders, and the collision was made certain by reliance upon the signals designed to prevent it.

Railway administrators should understand that these incidents are getting upon people's nerves. They are beginning to say that it is better not to travel at such risks. The people who are thinking and saying this are not those who travel so seldom that they take needless alarm. It is precisely those who might be thought most hardened by experience and who are best informed by what goes on inside railway offices, who are [illegible] alarmed. Thus, in The Sun we find Mr. J. J. Hill quoted by a member of the cabinet, unnamed:

"Every time I undertake a railroad journey nowadays I wonder whether it is to be my last. The thing has grown to be uncertain. It is a fact, of knowledge to every railroad man, that in this day from two to three trains enter at times into every block of every system in the country. There is danger in it."

And Chairman Knapp, of the interstate commerce commission, said he believed it to be true that the block signal system through design had become absolutely ineffective. It is to be noted that no defect of the block system is blamed for these killings. On the contrary, it is its perfection which causes the trouble. If the signals were obeyed they would impede traffic, and risks are taken to move the trains. It was just so in the Grand Central tunnel when engineers ran past signals clouded by fog and steam until public patience was exhausted, and the railway had to make the necessary improvements. These burnings and manglings which are happening upon one great railway after another with entire impartiality are having a similar effect upon the passenger business of the continent. The railways, in public opinion, must do less business, or do it at a smaller cost of life, whatever means they adopt to that end.

It is merely a detail that 50 persons were killed in this latest accident. Two freight trains might have been brought into collision by the same facts and the public would never have heard of it. Yet the moral guilt and the technical fault would have been the same, for no man can foresee results. It follows that discipline is the remedy for collisions. There should be no excuse for failure to give a signal, or to observe a signal when given, or for a train passing a danger signal. In the subway we have daily or hourly demonstrations of only one mechanical device for checking trains which run past signals. Mechanically there is no difficulty. The trouble is that best use is not made of existing devices. A train is allowed to enter a block, and a flagman is sent back to prevent a rear collision. The block system, if faithfully worked, would have obviated sending back a rear signalman. The practice is not a double precaution—it is a sign that the system is not worked. When systems are not worked there is no certainty how far they are departed from. On the one hand there is a reliance upon the system which sends trains through darkness and fog at full speed, and on the other hand there is less caution than there would have been if there were no system at all, and trains proceeded with every sense alert and under a keen sense of danger. Signals half obeyed are worse than none. Signals scrupulously followed are good enough. It is humiliating and exasperating to have it proved at the cost of many lives in every case that their sacrifice was due not to some great unpreventable cause, but to neglect of some simple precaution or detail. In order to stop the big accidents we must stop the little ones. A railroad man must be taught to regard himself as an advance picket in the enemy's country in war time. Eternal vigilance and obedience to orders is the price of railway safety, and it must be paid, even if traffic movement is impeded. The value of the rods which have surprise tests is very much to the point. Failure to obey signals when nothing harmful resulted is followed by 'discharge' nevertheless, the men being punished for their fault, regardless of its results. As a result one road, upon which neglect of signals was customary, has brought its staff up to such a discipline that in 1,625 surprise tests there was not one failure.

A meeting of the art and literature department of the Woman's club was held yesterday afternoon in the Grace parish house, the chairman, Mrs. Fred A. Mueller, presiding. The paper of the day on "Hamlet" was read by Mrs. Jennie Shelley Boyd. The subject was ably handled and drew out a spirited discussion.

Votes of thanks were extended to all who contributed toward the success of the "Twelfth Night" entertainment recently given by the department. The study class will meet on Thursday, January 24, at 3 p. m., in the home of Mrs. B. F. Bassett, 1325 North Wahsatch avenue.

BAD WEATHER IN CALIFORNIA

Denver Man Who Just Returned From Coast Says Los Angeles Is a Sea of Mud.

"The city of San Diego, Cal., appears to be one of the most promising on the Pacific coast, and I think the chances for investment there are better than anywhere on the coast," was the remark of H. P. Spencer, of the Columbia Savings and Loan association of Denver, who was in the city yesterday. Mr. Spencer is on his way back from a trip in which he visited all the Pacific coast towns from Washington to southern California, and while he expressed himself as highly pleased with the development in most of the cities, he thinks San Diego has possibly the best future of them all.

"I spent several days in Los Angeles," said Mr. Spencer, "and never saw so much rain at one time in my life. I never went out without an umbrella and the mud was something fearful. On some streets the mud is so thick that wagons are stuck and the teams are unable to move their loads. While there I ran down to San Diego, and when I came back they told me it had never ceased to rain, though we had fine weather at San Diego. This old town is coming to the front rapidly and promises to be one of the big cities on the Pacific coast. U. S. Grant, Jr., is building a $1,000,000 hotel which he is naming after his father, and Claus Spreckels, the sugar king, is building a 50-mile branch of railway from Yuma, where it connects with the Southern Pacific and the Rock Island, which is also building a branch into that place. It is expected that San Diego will be the western terminus of the Rock Island, and when the Panama canal is finished it is evident that San Diego will be one of the greatest of the Pacific ports, as it is the nearest American port to the canal and has a magnificent harbor."

FOREIGNER TALKS AMERICAN

Austrian Causes Amusement at Court House.

District Clerk Edgar Howbert and the other officials in his office were greatly amused yesterday afternoon by the answers to various queries put to Stephen Mihalovis, an Austrian, who is taking out his second naturalization papers. Mihalovis is 62 years of age and lives at Calhan, in the eastern part of El Paso county.

When interrogated as to whether he renounced all allegiance to "all foreign princes and potentates," the prospective American citizen replied, "Francis Joseph no my king—President Roosevelt my king." He has four children, and described their respective ages only by the rejoinder that "one was born when there was snow on the ground, two when it was hot weather and one when the leaves were falling."

WIFE HAS MANY COMPLAINTS

Mrs. Sadie Wing Wants Divorce on Grounds of Cruelty.

Charging that her husband compelled her to sleep alone on a pallet, while he and his son occupied a comfortable bed at night; that, within a month after their marriage he ordered her to go out to work, and later drew a revolver and threatened to take her life, Mrs. Sadie Wing today filed suit in the county court for divorce from M. E. Wing.

The couple were married in Indianola, Iowa, December 8, 1904. In addition to the charges of cruelty, the plaintiff alleges that at no time since their marriage has her husband properly provided for her.

LOSSES BY FIRES ARE SLIGHT

Report of Fire Department Shows Satisfactory Year.

The annual report of Fire Chief F. G. Armbruster shows that during 1906 there were 160 fires in Colorado Springs, the insurance involved being $884,877. The insured loss was $8,669.25, and the uninsured loss aggregated $1,665. During 1905 there were 124 fires, the insurance involved amounting to $710,990. The insured loss was $72,763.62, and the uninsured loss aggregated $1,650. The great difference in the insured loss of the two years is due to the fire in the store of the Colorado Springs Dry Goods company in 1905.

The department during the last year inspected 494 buildings and 4,060 ash-pits and rewired 142 buildings.

Mrs. H. E. Warner, of Denver, is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. W. Carey Allen, 715 North Weber street. Mrs. Warner was the wife of the late Rev. Dr. Warner, who was the pastor of the First Methodist church in this city, about 11 years ago.

LIQUIDATION IS HEAVY

NEW RAILROAD CAPITAL AFFECTS SECURITIES.

Bears Operate With Boldness and on Large Scale.—Condition of Stock Market Vulnerable.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—There was heavy liquidation of securities on the stock market today, due to the constant extension and the demand for new capital by the railroad companies.

Published remarks on the subject of capital requirements by President Thomas of the Hocking valley, and President Finley of the Southern railway were interpreted as threatening a necessity of greater outlay of earnings in improvements owing to the difficulties in the way of raising capital. The first effect of this new element in the situation was most acute on the Morgan group of stocks. The Southern railway stocks broke violently and the preferred stock especially seemed to lack any bids for offerings pressed to sale.

The remarks of the two railroad presidents referred to were accepted also in a wide sense as enforcing the universal requirement of the railroad industry for great additional outlay of capital in the face of heavy growth in the cost of material and labor. The feeling was revived in full force which pervaded the market when the Pennsylvania stock issue was first announced, that estimates hitherto presented of the capital needs of the railroad corporations had been grossly miscalculated.

Erie was the earlier stock to show close sympathy with the slump in Southern railway, the rest of the market being disposed for a time to ignore the movement. The first spread of the movement was to other low priced stocks which might be supposed to have similar difficulty in raising capital. The growing weakness of the market was due very generally to the consideration of the same topic from different points of view. The strength which has been shown recently in copper stocks on the talk of a merger of important Michigan properties gave way to sudden weakness in Amalgamated Copper when the suggestion found utterance that a new issue of the stock might be involved in the supposed merger.

The vulnerable condition of the market invited aggressive tactics by the bears and they operated with great boldness and on a large scale. This was manifest in the rumors which circulated and which met with authoritative denials and also in the extent of the demand to cover shorts at times when the liquidation spent its force. The forces of replenishment of money supplies continued to operate and the call money market showed positive ease at 4 per cent and below. Funds are reported to be flowing to New York from the interior in large volume and subtreasury operations have yielded to the banks this week $7,100,000.

Stocks sold at the lowest of the day in the final hour, owing to liquidation, but the demand from uncovered shorts caused a substantial rally which was held to the closing.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,046,000.

U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

WHEAT CLOSES STEADY

PRICES SHOW ONLY MODERATE CHANGES.

Corn Market Firm.—Market for Oats Strong and Active.—Provisions Open Firm, but Close Weak.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—The wheat market opened a trifle easier because of lower cables and unfavorable news from the winter wheat country.

Extremely small receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth partly offset these bearish influences, and later when the price of oats advanced 1 cent the sentiment in the wheat pit became bullish. Prices, however, showed only moderate changes. Other influences strengthening the market were a lively demand for cash wheat at Minneapolis and Kansas City and an improved demand for flour for export. The market closed steady. May opened unchanged to a shade lower at 76⅛c, sold between 75¾@76 and 76⅜c, and closed at 76⅛@¼.

Wet weather caused firmness in the corn market. Local receipts today were less than one-half of the established record and this brought out a good demand for cash grain. The volume of trading was small and the market closed firm. May opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 43⅞@44c, sold up to 44⅛@⅜c, and closed at 44⅛c.

The market for oats was strong and active. Leading bulls bought heavily of May and July and this demand induced free covering by shorts. May opened a shade to ⅛c higher at 37⅛ to 37¼c, advanced to 37⅜c, and closed at the highest point.

Provisions opened firm because of an advance in the price of live hogs, but the market soon weakened on free selling by pit traders. At the close May pork was down 10 cents at $16.55. Lard was off 5 cents at $9.50. Ribs were 7½ cents lower at $9.15.

FIVE-OUNCE ORE FOUND

GOOD ORE BODY ENCOUNTERED IN JACK POT CLAIM.

Three or Four Feet of Ore Will Give Returns of Three to Five Ounces to the Ton.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 16.—The Midland Leasing company, operating between the second and fourth levels of the Jack Pot claim of the old Dexter shaft, belonging to the Doctor-Jack Pot Consolidated company on Raven hill, have recently found another good body of ore. The management has come onto about three feet of ore just above the 400-foot level that will give returns of from three to five ounces in gold to the ton. This company also has ore of a good grade in two other places. The new find is in virgin ground and will make the operators considerable money. This company is now shipping from two to three cars of ore a week, and the tonnage will be materially increased as two shifts have just been put to work. The new strike is getting richer as development work progresses.

Smith and Altman, who have a lease at a depth of 700 feet on the Elizabeth Cooper claim of the same company, are getting out two and three cars of ore a week that averages better than two ounces to the ton. These lessees have between three and four feet of ore which shows a quantity of sylvanite ore.

START ON MOUNTAIN BEAUTY

Carlton and Company Will Begin Work in Near Future.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 16.—Operation will probably be started by Carlton and company, on the Mountain Beauty property, the latter part of this or the first of next month. An ore body 15 feet wide has been uncovered at a depth of 800 feet and operations conducted through the Findley.

This shoot can be broken down for three feet or more and shipped giving values in car load lots of from $300 to $500 in gold to the ton. The balance of the shoot will run better than $30 in gold to the ton.

Blanchard and associates operating in another part of the Mountain Beauty, at a depth of 100 feet have opened up a shoot over 20 feet wide. The values are very changeable in this shoot, running according to assays from $15 to several ounces. The ore will probably average around one ounce.

Development work is still in progress, and no attempt is being made to ship at the present time.

BIG MILL FOR INDEPENDENCE

Treatment of Its Low Grade Ore Now Being Considered. Score or More Lessees Making Money.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 16.—There are about a score or more of lessees now operating on the Stratton's Independence, limited and all are getting out some ore. The total tonnage per month runs from 1,800 to 2,000 tons, and the average grade is close to two ounces.

Wilson and company, who a short time ago cut the big flat vein after going through a cavein from the jewel shop on the forth level, are getting out the largest tonnage and the best ore. This lease is shipping ore that runs from 1½ to 2½ ounces in gold, according to reliable information.

The Stratton's Independence is in splendid condition and practically all of the lessees are making money. It is expected that it will be many months until the company decides on some process for the treatment of its immense bodies of low grade ore, and when this is decided, a big cyanide mill will be erected at a cost of several hundred thousand dollars. Experiments are being made constantly and it is believed that a system of treatment has about been reached.

RICH ORE IN CROSS VEIN

Shoot Is Literally Covered With Sylvanite on Henry Adney.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 16.—M. E. Burke of the Julia V. Mining company operating on the Henry Adney property on the west slope of Beacon hill, has recently encountered a cross vein at a depth of 600 feet which is about three feet wide and carries as high values as were ever found in the property. The shoot is literally covered with sylvanite and the ore can be broken down and shipped with but little sorting and returns received of from four to five ounces in gold to the ton. The uncovering of this shoot is something new to the mine and a shipment is now being prepared. The ore was found in the south drift a little north of the big stope where most of the ore has been coming from.

SEVEN HUNDRED TONS MONTH

Anchoria Leland Gives Good Returns to Score of Lessees.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 16.—There are at the present time about a score of lessees operating on the Anchoria-Leland, all working under the 50 per cent royalty plan whereby the company furnishes everything but the labor. Operations by lessees has been limited to a depth of 500 feet. The lessees are getting out about 700 tons of ore a month that will average from $30 to $40 in gold to the ton. C. W. Howbert, of Colorado Springs, is the general manager of the company, while Bass Tipton is superintendent. It is currently reported that both of these gentlemen will leave the district next month for Old Mexico, where they will operate for a large company having in fee simple and under lease over 20,000 acres of mineral land.

CHRISTMAS PAYS WELL

Lessees Are Getting Ore of High Grade From Several Places.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 16.—One of the best leases in the camp and one that is paying handsome monthly royalties is the Becker and Travell lease on the Christmas on Bull hill. These lessees are getting ore from several different places as deep as 900 feet and the average grade of the ore will be about two ounces. Recently a car of screenings was shipped which run about three ounces in gold to the ton.

VEIN SHOWING IS GOOD

Recent Work on Acma Group, at Turret, Gratifying.

TURRET, Colo., Jan. 16.—The recent work on the Acma group should be most gratifying to the owners of that valuable property. In no less than three places on three separate veins, the showing is especially fine and should stimulate a vigorous prosecution of the development.

The Vivandiere is producing ore as usual. Nine tons were taken out the first seven days of this month. By a careful calculation, Superintendent Logan has ascertained that the three men working in ore average $15 to the man. That leaves about $15 a day which could be used for dead work and still break even.

The smelter returns from three cars of Independence ore make every one about the mine happy. The total value of the ore was $771 and the net profit $145. During preparation for shipment considerable dead work was done in timbering, cleaning and fitting up the mine for business. This increased the expenses proportionately. The edict has gone forth from Superintendent Thompson that ten cars must be shipped during the present month. At the same rate the net profit would be $473. This is not large, but it is on the right side of the balance sheet and will do very well indeed for the first full month of mining. The roads are in fine condition for hauling and Bob Davidson is maintaining his reputation in that line.

The Independence pay roll for last month, paid on the 8th, amounted to over $600. This is but the beginning, and it is bound to grow.

NEW ORE BODY REACHED

Specie Payment Mine, Idaho Springs, Encounters Rich Ore.

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo., Jan. 16.—In the Specie Payment mine at the level of the Two Brothers tunnel a new ore body has been reached and is developing to great proportions. It was scarcely a discovery as it is the continuation downward of one of the well-known shoots of the surface workings. The great size and excellent value at the deep level is a matter for congratulation, however.

No difficulty has been experienced from scarcity of water for the steam boilers this winter, as a new source of supply that is ample for all needs has been found in an abandoned mine above the tunnel.

The management has not yet determined when the new plant proposed for the mine will be erected. The delivery of heavy machinery such as will be required is much delayed owing to the demand upon the factories.

However, the Specie Payment is able, with its present equipment, to maintain heavy production and at the same time keep development work going forward at such rate that the reserves are increasing. It is now one of the big mines of the county and will eventually take the lead, it appears.

WORLD'S YIELD OF COPPER.

Value of the Daily Output Reaches a Total of $1,000,000.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

One hundred years ago the mines of the globe produced an average of 10,000 long tons of copper yearly—less than the present yearly output of either nickel or aluminum—while in 1905 production is at the rate of 15,000 long tons a week, and there is much talk of a copper famine, to which color is given by the present price of the metal, which is higher than for 25 years past.

According to the Copper Handbook, just issued by Horace J. Stevens, of Houghton, Mich., in 1905 there were 15 individual companies, each of which produced more copper than all the mines of the globe produced in 1805, and two mines each of which made as much of the metal last year as all of the mines in the world made during the first five years of the nineteenth century, the two mines in question being the Calumet and Hecla, of Michigan, and the Anaconda, of Montana.

Great Producer of Copper.

Of the fifteen mines of the globe that made 25,000,000 or more pounds each of refined copper in 1905 ten are in the United States, while there are one each in Mexico, Spain, Germany and Japan, and one the American Smelting and Refining company—generally known as the smelter trust, that draws its copper ores from numerous small mines in Mexico, Canada and the United States.

In 1905 there were 183 properties. One, the smelter trust, drew ores from nearly all of North America, while the others were located as follows: United States, 56; Mexico, 11; Chile, 10; Japan, credited with a production of 1,000,000 or more pounds of fine copper each. Of the 100 leading producers, six; Canada and Australia, 5 each; Spain, Russia and Cape Colony, 2 each; Germany, 2; Tasmania, Norway, Italy, Turkey and Newfoundland, 1 each. Ninety-four of these 100 properties made more than 3,000,000 pounds of fine copper each in 1905.

Yield $1,000,000 a Day.

Figuring copper at an average price throughout the globe of 20½ cents a pound, which is a trifle below the average quotations, the mines of the world are making copper at the rate of exactly $1,000,000 a day for every day in the year, including Sundays and holidays.

Compared with copper the value of the gold and silver production of the United States is as a minor fraction, great as is the output of the precious metals and rapid as has been the increase in production of the money metals by the mines of America. Another fact of deep interest is found in the surprisingly large percentage of the gold and silver output of the country that comes as a byproduct from the copper mines.

The vast and rapidly increasing value of the copper output of the United States, which makes more than half of the copper produced in the world, is a most significant development.

WHITE MAN TURNED BLACK.

Found Roaming in the Wilds of Australia and Cared For.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

In the house of detention at Inverell, under the care of the government of New South Wales, there is a genuine wild man who was captured in the almost impenetrable brush of the island continent by the mounted police. For years this curious creature had been sought, but he had always managed to elude his pursuers until he was shot in the leg and fell as a wounded deer. A strange thing about him was that he was once white—a European, in fact. Through his long exposure to the actions of the climate he became almost black, while his hair and beard grew as bushy as that of the aboriginal of Australia, undoubtedly the lowest type of man in existence.

He knew no language, which seemed to demonstrate little contact with other human beings. After some time his custodians could prevail on him to utter some sounds, and naturally he was a past master in the art of imitating the beasts and birds of the brush from the shrillery of the treacherous dingo to the tinkling of the bell bird that calls the poor thirsty traveler to where water is to be found.

In the forest filled with magnificent plumaged parrots and cockatoos and feathered finches, with kangaroos, opossums and all manner of strange beasts and birds, he had spent his life. He had probably subsisted since childhood on berries, wild honey and the like. He was unclothed and he ran with the agility of a stag; bounding over fallen logs, climbing trees like a native bear and generally living the life of an unassociated and unmated animal of some unknown and extraordinary kind.

That he had not fallen victim to snakes is a marvel, but his agility in getting up the stems of the blue gums and other trees would place him in security out of the way of the wild dogs, which only attack after sundown and before sunrise.

When he found himself confronted by men of his own kind, and perhaps of his own blood, he screamed with terror and cried like a child. His captors treated him with all kindness and bound up his wound, which happily was unimportant. Then he was conveyed to Inverell and fed, bathed and clothed.

He became less frightened, but from that day to this no one has been able to get at his history or antecedents.

That as a child he wandered into the bush and was lost is the only acceptable theory. That he must have been exposed to the elements for many years would suggest itself because of the changed color of his skin.

The "only genuine wild white man" appears to be slowly gaining confidence in his captors and even, so far as one may guess, learning to be contented.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

From the Chicago News.

Be sure you are off with the old love before selecting a new supply of calico.

Good intentions should have asbestos covers—for reasons unnecessary to mention.

With Christmas off our hands, we are now ready for the water-wagon excursion.

Try to live right and don't worry about how you are going to die; you'll die all right.

In looking over your actions during the last year you'll be surprised at the number you would gladly overlook.

RESULT OF NEGLECT

In most cases consumption results from a neglected or improperly treated cold. Foley's Honey and Tar cures the most obstinate coughs and prevents serious results. It costs you no more than the unknown preparations and you should insist upon having the genuine in the yellow package. All dealers.

Tomorrow every fault is to be amended; but that morrow never comes.

AMERICAN MUSIC IS THEME

Arthur Farwell of Boston Will Entertain Springs Music Lovers.

The Colorado Springs Musical club has issued invitations to a lecture recital, entitled "A National American Music" and illustrated by original compositions on American themes, to be given by Arthur Farwell of Boston, Mass., at the residence of Mrs. William O'Brien, 1210 Wood avenue, Friday afternoon, January 25, 1907, at 3 o'clock. The proceeds are to be devoted to the MacDowell fund.

Mr. Farwell gives a most instructive and delightful lecture recital for he has made his subject a life work. He is the founder and editor of the Wa-Wan press which publishes only the compositions of American composers and is devoted to founding a distinctive style of American music. Mr. Farwell has studied with Humperdinck, the great German composer, and he went into the land of the Zuni and lived among the American Indians that to their folk songs he might give modern treatment. The same is true of his studies of the music of the negro.

The case involved $177, the amount of impounding fees which have been collected and retained by Birdsall. The latter gave notice of an appeal to the district court.
